EFFECTS OF CLIMATE CHANGE

Malawi is one of the most affected countries by climate change. This has negatively affected agricultural production which is the economic bone of the country.

The impact of climate change in Malawi is being manifested in various ways. These are intense rainfall, floods and prolonged dry spells.

People are living in poverty because they depend on good rains for food. This poverty is now forcing some people to engage in immoral behavior as a way of finding money for food. This puts them at risk of contracting HIV and AIDS and other sexually transmitted infections
